What Is Project Health?

Project Health is a non-profit corporation supported by the Panhandle Public Health Foundation, Inc., that was established in 2004 for the benefit of public health in Benewah, Bonner, Boundary, Kootenai and Shoshone counties. A community volunteer board of directors governs Project Health.

Project Health encourages private support for public health programs from individuals, corporations, private foundations and other institutions to help provide quality public health services in the Panhandle region.

Project Health raises funds for charitable and educational purposes. It is organized to assist local public health programs in promoting healthy people in healthy communities throughout Northern Idaho. The challenge is to provide funds where the need is greatest and where private support will make the critical difference to the success of providing public health services to people in the five northern counties of Idaho.

The Mission

The mission of the Project Health is to support current and innovative programs that improve the health of our Panhandle Communities.

Contributions to the Project Health are fully tax deductible to the extent allowed by law.

How Project Health Can Help

Funds raised are used to:

- Provide services to uninsured children for preventive dental care services.
- Assist with the Panhandle Health District's Senior Companion Program services.
- Provide funds for free clinics to help serve low income friends and neighbors for primary care Services.

Benefits of Giving

Your generosity will provide opportunities for the betterment of community health programs in North Idaho.

Please remember to include the Project Health in your charitable giving plans. Private support is vital to the success of our mission.

Any gift or donation, regardless of size, can be made through Project Health and is fully tax-deductible.
